Description

Protecting yourself, your colleagues and the environment should always come first in the laboratory. However, the overview between the different materials and standards for protective equipment can easily get lost in everyday laboratory life. This manual provides a remedy for this. In 8 passages, it focuses on your personal protection in a user-oriented manner.

You will be informed in the areas of hand and arm protection, full-body, head, eye and face protection, as well as in the sub-areas of hearing, breathing and foot protection, in addition to general first aid.
